Visit to El Salvador

August 23-25, 2019

In the company of Mons. Faustino Armendáriz Jiménez Ecclesiastical Advisor of the OMCC we moved to El Salvador to obtain an audience with the Exmmo. Archbishop Mons. José Luis Escobar Alas, President of the Salvadoran Episcopate, interview that with God's favor we could reach.

Before this important interview, Archbishop Escobar invited Bishop Faustino to accompany him to celebrate the Eucharist in which a young seminarian was ordained as a Deacon.

ÁFRICA

Subsequently we had an extensive and excellent informative talk with Mr. Archbishop on the affairs of the MCC, who in turn shared his views and appreciation about the Movement in El Salvador.

We say goodbye to the Archbishop but not before delivering a copy of our Statutes and the Decree for the OMCC, as well as appointing this executive committee and receiving an invitation from the Archbishop to attend the Episcopate Assembly next January 2020 to share this information. and documents to the other bishops of El Salvador.

Knowing that in the retreat house of the diocese a “conversation” on topics of the MCC was developed, we moved to that place where we could greet the attendees and accompany them and live with them on a visit to the historic center of San Salvador.

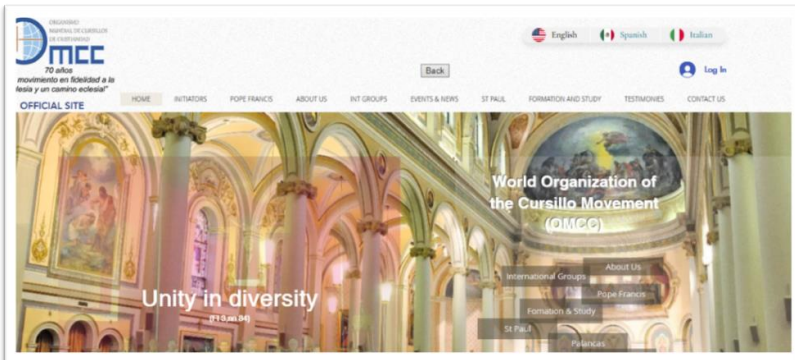

The next day - Sunday - we moved to Don Bosco Citadel to participate in the ninth Central American Ultreya attended by trainees from Panama, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala and El Salvador host country.

It was a pleasant experience for us to decide to mix with the great cursillista family that intensely lived that great party that is an ultreya. There in the stands surrounded by the fraternal warmth of the "colors", we had a group meeting with them, we sang and enjoyed every moment to the fullest. It helped us to know their Group Meeting schemes.

New Official Site OMCC

OMCC uses technology, with a totally human approach, to connect with users, trainees, who want to be informed, continue preparing and feel part of a safe and fraternal space that fosters friendship and "unity in diversity" (IF3, 84) to Evangelize.

Considering the new times, OMCC reflects on the need to present this Website as a meeting place for cursillistas, leaders and those interested in knowing our form of Evangelization. And as Pope Francis has said: "... social networks are a meeting place for pastoral action."

The page is a connection tool with the cursillistas, priests, current and potential cursillistas of the world and seeks to offer the community of trainees a service of digital storage of information and readings that add value to the MCC, and that when they access our site, generate a feeling of getting to the right place.

Formation and Study on Line

<https://www.cursillosdecristiandad.net/?lang=es>

One of our projects is to incorporate training and study online. To make available to the cursillistas of the world, and to the Schools of Leaders, training material, works in relation to Identity, Charism, Mentality, Essence, Purpose and Method, all of them in the light of IF3. This modality does not replace the School as a structure already defined in 318 of IF3.

It began with a basic course to learn about the Moodle platform and an initial course on “Learning is Change, in a World of Change” to motivate continuous learning, throughout life.

Pope Francis: I prefer a rugged, wounded and stained Church to go out into the street, than a Church sick from confinement and the comfort of clinging to one's own safety. I don't want a Church worried about being the center and that ends in a tangle of obsessions and procedures ”

In the month of July I had a meeting in the city of Madrid, with trainees who continue working to extend the Kingdom of God in the world. Here with some members of that meeting.

Accompaniment with the cursillistas of El Salvador

The closing Eucharistic Celebration was presided over by the Apostolic Nuncio, two local bishops and Mons. Faustino Armendáriz.

At the end of the Eucharistic celebration we held an interview with the Apostolic Nuncio Mons. Santo Rocco Gangemi, and HE Mons. Miguel Ángel Morán Aquino, National Ecclesiastical Advisor of the MCC of El Salvador, to whom we share the same information as to Lord Archbishop Escobar Alas the day previous; We received their comments and comments on the status of the Movement, giving them a copy of the documents issued by the Holy See.

We share the food with these ecclesiastical authorities saying goodbye to the National Secretariat of El Salvador to whom we express our gratitude for your attention, the good organization and the development of the IX Central American Ultreya. A meeting whose fruit was knowing the walk of the MCC in El Salvador.

My prayer message for all of you cursillistas of the World

The images speak a thousand words, says a popular expression. Seeing the photographs of the IX Ultreya made in El Salvador, he invites us to reflect on how current and alive our Movement is. Let us pray to the Holy Spirit so that we remain faithful to our charism, essence, purpose and method, as indicated by Fundamental Ideas 3, the OMCC Statutes and the Vatican Decree.

This was an encounter with Christ, with himself and with others

Second Meeting of the OMCC in Chicago
September 26-29, 2019

The Cursillo Movement of Christianity, as a Church movement, deserves that we put all our effort, dedication and spirit of unity so that Cursillos continues to fulfill its mission of evangelization, being faithful to its charisma, essence and purpose, already indicated in Fundamental Ideas 3, in the Vatican Decree and in our Statute.

May this meeting with the International Groups and the OMCC Mexico be for the good of God's plan.

I ask the Lord that this meeting be fruitful for the good of the Christianity courses.

Pray for our work, for our unity and communion with the Church and with the cursillistas of the World.
